

life is dull
grey lights marching toward another blood soaked day

do not run from the pool of light that harkons back to that splendid day when draped in anothers vissage a new body of light romped to and fro terrorizing in a frenzily rage oh how good it is to be reborn on that night in a moonlit haze